Originally Aborigines native aboard land southern location map

Can you find Australia on a map? It sits in the southern part of the earth in the Indian and Pacific Oceans.

Originally, Australia was home to native tribes. These people are called Aborigines. For thousands of years, Aborigines were the only people in Australia. In 1770, explorers from Great Britain said Australia was now part of England. The English wanted Australia because of its location. The English used Australia as a place to land ships.
