Unit 1 Article and Nouns

He is the king.

A noun is a person, place, thing, or idea.

Example: man, home, pencil, love

Often, we put an article in front of a noun. There are two kinds of articles.

Example: a man / the man

Sometimes we want to talk about a noun as 'any X' or 'some X', not 'that one X'. Then, we use a or an in front of the noun. This means 'any one thing'. We use an for nouns that start with a vowel (an a, e, i, o, or u) and an a for all other nouns.

Example: Sally picked a flower. / Sally picked an orange. (It can be any flower or orange.)

Sometimes, though, we want to talk about a noun as 'that one X', not just 'any X'. Then, we use the in front of the noun. This means 'the only one X' or 'one specific X'.

Example: the sky (there is only one sky) / the small dog (not other dogs)

an		an igloo    an orange    an umbrella
Only one thing		the sun    the sky    the moon    the sea    the king
the	A specific thing	  the blue book    the small dog

Unit 2 Singular and Plural Nouns

They are children.

Remember that a noun is a person, place, thing, or idea. (See Unit 1.)

Example: man, Toronto, pencil, love

Generally, nouns can be singular or plural. Singular means that there is one, and plural means that there are two or more.

For most nouns, the plural form is made by adding -s to the end of the noun.

Example: one pencil → two pencils / one book → two books

For nouns that end in -s, -x, -sh, or -ch, -es is added after the noun to make the plural form.

Example: bus → two buses / fox → two foxes / peach → two peaches

For nouns that end in a consonant + y, replace the y with i and add -es,

Example: baby → babies / lady → ladies

For most nouns that end with an f, replace the f with a v and add -es.

Example: leaf → leaves / calf → calves

There are also some nouns with irregular plural forms that do not end with -s or -es.

Example: mouse → mice / man → men / foot → feet

	+ -ves	a leaf → -ves	four leaves
Irregular Nouns		a foot a child a man a woman a mouse	two feet four children three men six women five mice

Unit 3 Count and Noncount Nouns

I want some bread.

Remember that a noun is a person, place, thing, or idea. (See Unit 2.)

Example: man, Toronto, pencil, love

There are two kinds of nouns: count and noncount.

Count nouns are things that we can count (one, two, three). Count nouns have a clear shape with a boundary; a pencil has a clear shape, but air does not. So, air is a noncount noun.

All the things a count noun names are of one type and are basically the same; pencils are all mostly the same, but there are many kinds of furniture. So, furniture is a noncount noun.

Count nouns take articles if they are singular. If they are plural, they usually end in -s. Remember that some nouns have irregular plural forms (ex., children, feet).

Example: I have a hat. / I have two hats.

Noncount nouns do not take articles and do not have plural forms. It doesn't matter if there is a little or a lot, noncount nouns are always singular. Sometimes, we use some in front of noncount nouns. Here, some means "a little".

Example: I have rice. / I have some rice.

Unit 4 There + The Verb Be

There are kangaroos.

We use There is/are to say that something is in a certain place or simply that it exists.

Example: There is someone in the room. / There are many problems.

The be verb can be is if we are talking about a singular or noncount noun. When we are talking about a plural noun, the be verb has the form are.

Example: There is a kangaroo. / There is water. / There are kangaroos.

We often use prepositions (like in, on, at, etc.) with there is/are to say where something is.

Example: There is a ball on the table.

Unit 5 The Verb Be: Affirmative and Negative

She's not a singer.

In the present tense, be verb is changed to am, are, or is according to the subject, as follows.

I → am                      Example: I am a student.

you, we, they → are      Example: You are good.

he, she, it → is            Example: They are students.

The be verb can be followed by a noun, an adjective, etc.

Example: She is a student. She is smart.

To make a sentence negative, put not after the be verb. Notice that we can use apostrophes.

Example: I am not a dancer. → I'm not a dancer. / ~~X~~ I amn't a dancer.

She is not a dancer. → She isn't a dancer.

They are not dancers. → They aren't dancers.

The Verb Be: Affirmative and Negative

	Affirmative			Negative
Singular	I am (I'm)	You are (You're)	She / He / It is (She's / He's / It's)	I am not (I'm not)	You are not (You aren't)	She / He / It is not (She / He / It isn't)
Plural	We are (We're)	You are (You're)	They are (They're)	We are not (We aren't)	You are not (You aren't)	They are not (They aren't)

Unit 6 The Verb Be: Yes / No Questions

Are you a teacher?

To form a simple present yes / no question with be verb, move the be verb to in front of the subject.

Example: Are you a student? / Is she a student?

Answer this kind of yes / no question with yes or no, followed by the subject and be verb (+ not). Notice that we can use apostrophes. We cannot use apostrophes with positive answers, though.

Example: Yes, I am. / X Yes, I'm. / No, I'm not. / X No, I amn't.

Yes, you are. / X Yes, you're. / No, you aren't.

Yes, she is. / X Yes, she's. / No, she isn't.

	Are	you	late?	Yes, I am.	No, I'm not.
	Is	she / he / it		Yes, she / he / it is.	No, she / he / it isn't.
Plural	Are	we / you / they	late?	Yes, we / you / they are.	No, you / we / they aren't.

Unit 7 Simple Present: Affirmative

He gets up at seven every day.

Simple present tense is used to talk about things that are generally true and are not likely to change soon.

Example: I live in Canada. (I am not going to move soon.)

In simple present tense, the verb changes its form according to the subject. In the case of a third person singular subject (She / He / It), -s / -es is added to the end of the verb.

Example: I work at a bank, and my brother works at a hospital.

There are some rules for forming third-person verbs in the simple present.

- (1) Most verbs (speak) → add -s (He speaks quickly.)
- (2) Verbs ending in -y (cry) → change -y to -ies (She cries all the time.)
- (3) Verbs ending in -y with a vowel before the y (play) → add -s (He plays soccer on Saturdays.)
- (4) Verbs ending in -ss, -x, -sh, -ch (fix) → add -es (She fixes TVs.)
- (5) Irregular verbs (go, do, have) → (goes, does, has) read	reads	watch	watches	cry	cries	do	does eat	eats	wash	washes	study	studies	go	goes ride	rides	fix	fixes	fly	flies

		guess	guesses

Unit 8 Simple Present: Negative

She doesn't have a hat.

Remember that simple present is used to talk about things that are generally true and will not change soon. (See Unit 7.) For most verbs, we add -s if the subject is he / she / it. (Remember, too, that there are some irregular verbs.)

Example: I get up early. / She gets up early.

In the present tense, negative statements have the form subject + do + not + verb. We always use base verbs. Notice that we can use apostrophes.

Example: We do not get up early. / We don't get up early.

If the subject is he / she / it, use does. For all other subjects, use do.

Example: She does not have a car. / We do not have a car.

Simple Present: Negative

Affirmative		Negative
I/You/We/They	get up early.	I/You/We/They	don't get up early.
	have pets.		don't have pets.
She/He/It	gets up early.	She/He/It	doesn't get up early.
	has a car.		doesn't have a car.

Unit 9 Simple Present: Yes / No Questions

Do you have a cat?

Remember we use simple present to talk about things that are generally or always true.

This unit focuses on forming yes / no questions in simple present. Only affirmative questions are covered.

For simple present yes / no questions, put Do and Does in front of the subject. Notice that the main verb doesn't change.

Example: Does he like it?

If the subject is he, she, or it use Does. For all other subjects use Do.

Example: Do you like it? / Does he like it?

Answer these kinds of questions with yes or no, followed by the subject and do (not) or does (not). Notice that we can use apostrophes.

Example: Do you like it? → Yes, I do. / No, I do not. (No, I don't.)

Does he like it? → Yes, he does. / No, he does not. (No, he doesn't.)

	he			he	does.	he
	it			it		it
No,			No,		doesn't.

Unit 10 Present Continuous: Affirmative

He's dancing.

We use the present continuous tense to talk about what is happening now or around now. The form is subject + be verb + V + -ing. Depending on the subject, the be verb takes the form am, are, and is. The main verb always ends in -ing.

For most verbs, we just add -ing to the end of the verb to make the present progressive form.

Example: I am studying. / He is speaking. (These things are happening right now.)

However, if the verb ends with consonant-vowel-consonant (ex., sit), we double the consonant before adding -ing.

Example: sit → She is sitting on the bench.

run → We're running.

If the verb ends in a consonant followed by an -e (ex., dance), we replace the -e with -ing.

Example: dance → He is dancing.

Present Continuous: Affirmative

I	am
You	are
She / He / It	is			dancing now.
We / You / They	are

Verb-ing	Most Verbs		Vowel + Consonant		Consonant + -e
	eat	eating	sit	sitting	dance	dancing
stand	standing	run	running	ride	riding
read	reading	put	putting	smile	smiling

Unit 11 Present Continuous: Negative

We're not moving.

Remember that present continuous is about things that are happening right now or around now. (See Unit 10.)

Example: He's reading a book.

Present continuous has the form subject + be verb + V-ing. The be-verb is am, are, or is depending on the subject.

Example: I am reading. / You are reading. / He is reading.

To make present continuous sentences negative, put not after the be verb. Notice that we can use apostrophes. This is very common.

Example: I am not studying. / He isn't speaking.

A Look and learn.

Present Continuous: Negative

I	am not (I'm not)	moving now.
You	are not (aren't)
She / He / It	is not (isn't)
We / You / They	are not (aren't)

Unit 12 Present Continuous: Yes / No Questions

Are you dancing?

In yes / no questions in present continuous, the be verb is in front of the subject. The rest of the verb (the -ing part) stays after the subject.

Example:     Are you studying? / Is he speaking?

Answer this kind of question with yes or no followed by subject + be verb (+ not). Notice that we can use apostrophes with negative answers.

Example:     Yes, I am. / X Yes, I'm. / No, I am not. / No, I'm not. / X No, I amn't.

Yes, you are. / X Yes, you're. / No, you are not. / No, you aren't.

Yes, he is. / X Yes, he's. / No, he is not. / No, he isn't.

Is	she / he / it	Yes, she / he / it is .	No, she / he / it isn't .

Unit 13 Adjectives

They are slow.

Adjectives give more information to describe nouns. They answer the question "What kind?"

Example: man → strong / tall / handsome / short / old

Adjectives can occur in front of the nouns they describe. The singular form is a + adjective + noun, and the plural form is adjective + plural noun.

Example: He is a strong man.

They are cute cats.

Adjectives can also occur behind linking verbs (ex., be, become, look, seem, smell, taste, etc.). This lesson focuses on the linking verb be.

Example: The man is strong.

The cats are cute.

We can make this kind of sentence negative by putting not after the be verb. Notice how we can use apostrophes.

Example: The bikes are not slow. / The bikes aren't slow.

Adjectives

Adjective	Noun	Subject + be		Adjective
slow	cows	The cows	are	slow.
fast	bikes	The bikes	aren't	slow.
a funny	story	The story	is	funny.
an old	car	The car	is	old.
a new	toy	The toy	isn't	old.

Unit 14 Comparatives

It's bigger than you.

Comparatives are used to compare two things. We can compare with adjectives (ex., larger), adverbs (ex., more beautifully), and nouns (ex., more toys). This unit focuses on comparative adjectives. The form is subject + verb + adjective comparison + than + comparison object.

Example: This one is larger than that one.

Generally, there are two forms of comparative adjectives. Short adjectives (those with only one or two syllables) form comparatives by adding -er. If they end in a y (ex., pretty), we remove the y and add -ier. If the adjective ends in consonant-vowel-consonant (ex., big), we double the last consonant and add -er.

Example: small → smaller, pretty → prettier, big → bigger

Longer adjectives (those that have three or more syllables) form comparatives by adding more in front. Notice that these comparative adjectives do not end in er.

Example: intelligent → more intelligent, ~~X~~ intelligenter, ~~X~~ more intelligenter

There are some other short adjectives that form comparatives with more. These are adjectives that end in -ful, -less, -ive, or -ous'.

Example: expensive → more expensive, ~~X~~ more expensiver

(This point is not covered in this unit, but may come up.) There are a few adjectives (especially good and bad) that form comparatives with irregular forms.

Example: good → better, bad → worse

Comparatives

	Adjective	Comparative
+ -er	fast 	faster
	big 	bigger
+ -ier	happy 	happier
more ...	expensive 	more expensive

A plane is faster than a car.

A plane is more expensive than a car.

Unit 15 Imperatives

Do not touch it.

An imperative is a command—an instruction—to do something or not to do something.

Example: Sit down. / Don't sit down.

In affirmative imperatives, the base verb is at the start of the sentence. The verb is always in the base form. The subject is left out. (In some cases, we can put 'you' as a subject. However, this sounds very strong!)

Example: Be quiet. (You be quiet!) / X Are quiet.

In the case of negative imperatives, do + not comes before the verb. It is common to use an apostrophe.

Example: Do not stand up. / Don't stand up.

A Look and learn.

Imperatives

Affirmative	Negative
Be quiet.	Don't talk.
Use chopsticks.	Don't use a spoon.
Sit down.	Don't stand up.
Take off your shoes.	Don't put on shoes.
Drink water.	Don't drink soda.

Unit 16 Information Questions

What are you eating?

We use information questions (also called wh-questions) to ask for specific information. These questions start with wh-question pronouns, such as who, when, what, where, how, and why.

This unit focuses on information questions in present continuous tense.

Sometimes the wh- question pronoun is the subject. These questions have the form wh-question pronoun + be verb + V-ing?

Example: Who is eating? (Who is the subject of the question.)

In other cases, the wh- question pronoun is an object. These questions have the form wh-question pronoun + be verb + subject + V-ing?

Example: What is Paul eating? (Paul is the subject of the question. What is the object.)

Depending on the subject, the be verb changes to am, are, or is.

Example: What am I eating? / What is he eating? / What are they eating?

Answer these questions with a statement, not with yes or no.
